

WILL YOU BE THE BEACON OF HOPE FOR THE CHILDREN OF DARFUR?

When Hunger Steals a Childhood, Compassion Brings it Back

Since fighting erupted in April 2023, Sudan has been plunged into what the UN describes as “the worst humanitarian crisis in the world today.”

Across Darfur, families live in straw huts miles from water. Food is almost impossible to find. Healthcare has collapsed. Schools are closed. There is no electricity. Over 820,000 children under five are expected to suffer from severe acute malnutrition this year alone. Famine has already been declared across Darfur, with the population now facing catastrophic hunger. Child malnutrition has increased by 46% in just six months and cholera has spread across the entire region resulting in many deaths.

But in the 110 Kids for Kids’ villages, there is hope.

A Lifeline in the Darkest of Times

With international aid blocked from reaching Darfur, Kids for Kids is the only organisation delivering emergency help directly to remote villages.

- So far our Kids Kitchen Kits have fed over 35,000 children, giving them desperately needed protein.
- Our Goats too are providing children with milk rich in vitamins and protein.
- Families in our villages have access to clean, safe water thanks to our handpumps.
- Whilst Sudan’s healthcare system has collapsed, we have trained Village Midwives and First Aid Workers in all our villages, bringing care to mothers and children who would otherwise have none.
- Now we are delivering emergency seeds, mosquito nets, vital medicines and veterinary drugs to keep animals alive.

Families who have lost everything are moving to our villages.
